

ASKS LEGISLATURE TO INVESTIGATE

Board of Agriculture Finds Conflict in Laws Governing Department.

WANTS SITUATION CLOSED UP

Both Factions Agree to This, and Churchman Punctures New Plan.

As has been freely predicted in The Times-Dispatch, the friction existing for some months in the Department of Agriculture came up in the second day's session of the board yesterday, and it provoked a spirited debate between Messrs. Churchman and Beverley, the respective leaders of the two factions. The result was the adoption of a report brought in by a majority of the special committee named on the previous day, asking the Legislature to define the powers and duties of the board and of the commissioner; to investigate the records of both, and to decide the present controversy between them.

This action was agreeable to both sides, but Mr. Churchman, who vigorously fought the recent reorganization plan, got through a resolution, which he had previously endeavored to incorporate in the report, shearing the executive committee of its enlarged powers, and converting it practically into an auditing committee, with little more authority than to examine the accounts of the department.

Pending a clarification of the situation by the Legislature, it would appear that the advocates of Commissioner Koiner's course have scored a victory, and that the friction will be considerably allayed in the meantime.

Law Not At All Plain.

Messrs. Beverley, Churchman and Barringer were appointed a committee to review the plan of reorganization, with the assistance of the Attorney-General, and make such amendments as seemed necessary, and in accordance with the law. The Attorney-General stated that the law was not clear, and therefore the following majority report of the committee was submitted and adopted:

To the State Board of Agriculture and Immigration of Virginia.
Gentlemen:—Your committee appointed to formulate a plan of reorganization, with the hope of clarifying and harmonizing the relations of the board, and its executive arm, the Commissioner of Agriculture and Immigration, after a full discussion of the question with the Attorney-General of the State, begs leave to report as follows:

1. The present statutes of the State relating to the functions of the board and commissioner are, so grossly at variance, and so much in need of interpretation, that your committee feels that they are unable to decide upon any plan other than to ask the Legislature to give, by legislative enactment, a clear interpretation of the relations now in question.

2. In view of the various charges of usurpation of power on the part of the board, and of interference with the powers of the commissioner, your committee also asks that the coming Legislature take steps to investigate fully the records of the Board of Agriculture, as well as the workings of the office of the commissioner, and to decide upon the rights of this controversy.

Respectfully submitted,
(Signed) P. B. BARRINGER,
J. H. C. BEVERLEY,
Committee.

October 10, 1907.

Churchman Wins.
Mr. Churchman, who submitted the minority report, did not object to the report as signed by the other two members, but wished to incorporate an amendment limiting the powers of the executive committee. This amendment was finally adopted by a vote of 2 to 1. The vote on the majority report was practically unanimous, as no member was opposed to its provisions, and Mr. Churchman only voted against it for parliamentary reasons, in order that he might offer his amendment, which really constituted an additional section.

Mr. Barker, who introduced the resolution appointing the committee to review the old plan, stated that he did so merely to have the provisions under which the board was working, strictly in accordance with the law. The report of the committee asking for an investigation met with the hearty approval of the board. Mr. Beverley presided at the following noon session, which considered and voted upon the matter. Messrs. Manick, Beverley, Arvin, Barker, Adams, Heister, Egghorn, Churchman and Dr. Barringer.

The board adjourned to meet in Richmond Wednesday, January 15th.

THIEVES GOT $3,000 IN POSTAL ROBBERY

pany goes to the bank to see that it is properly put in and sealed. Another representative of the same company is at the point of destination to be present when the seal is broken. It was a positive fact, therefore, that the $3,000 was actually shipped by the bank of Richmond.

Work of Trained Hand.

That the robbery was the work of a trained hand was evident because of two things. He had managed to rip open the envelope so cleverly that it could be sealed with so much care that the newspaper into the exact size, shape and weight as the package of money. The post-office used a large regulation envelope in which registered letters are placed, and this was unsealed with a degree of expertise that was astonishing.

Many registered packages are lost during the course of a year, but the number, compared with the number mailed, is relatively small. It is not often, however, that large robberies are committed. Larger packages have been stolen from the express companies, $10,000 having been lifted by a clerk at Wilmington, N. C., only a few months ago.

Out of deference to the post-office authorities, and in hope that the inspectors might be able to arrest the guilty parties, The Times-Dispatch withheld publication of the theft, until the fact immediately after it happened.
